This year, we will be joining with citizens, law enforcement agencies, community groups, businesses and local officials in over 15,000 communities from all 50 states, U.S. territories, Canadian cities and military bases worldwide will join forces to mark the "36th Annual National Night Out" (NNO).

Nationally, over 37 million people are expected to participate in "America's Night Out Against Crime" this year. This is a night for neighborhoods and law enforcement nationwide to stand united against crime and violence," said Matt Peskin, creator of the event and its National Project Coordinator.

"National Night Out offers a wonderful opportunity for citizens, community groups, public safety personnel and local officials to get out, meet, greet and discuss local safety issues. These interactions go a long way in helping to make neighborhoods safer places."
